DETAILED ACTION

This is the second office action for U.S. Application 11/828,746 for a Hold Down Device filed on April 20, 2007.

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election without traverse of Species I in the reply filed on August 27, 2007 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by U.S. patent 6,068,163 to Kihm. Kihm discloses a device that can function as a hold down device and hold down a flexible discharge hose. There is a container (2) with a top portion, a bottom portion, a front end and a rear end, and a handle (26) for carrying the hold down device. There is a hose recess (30) comprising a right wall, a left wall, and an upper wall (the hose has an opening surrounded by a circular opening, the circle having upper, lower, left, and right quadrants). The opening is configured to receive a discharge hose (a smaller hose could fit into the opening) and the container is adapted to hold down the discharge hose during draining. The container is hollow and configured to be filled and emptied with a filling material for varying the weight of the hold down device. The container is a solid material of a sufficient weight for holding down the discharge hose during draining. The container is configured to vertically stack at least two containers (the containers could be stacked and secured by a cord of some type) for added weight to hold down the discharge hose and to be stored by wrapping the discharge hose around the container. The handle (26) is integral with the top portion of the container and configured to allow the discharge hose to wrap around the handle for storing the hold down device. The hose recess is also configured to have a rear wall and receive the discharge hose between the right, left, upper and rear walls. The recess has openings on the front (at 36) and rear (at 32) ends of the container and is configured to receive the hose between the walls and a ground surface the bottom of the container rests on.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 8-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kihm in view of 4,416,396 to Ward. Kihm discloses a fill hole on the top portion of the container for filling and emptying the container with a filling material, as well as a plug (44) removably coupled to the fill hole for retaining the fill material within the container.

Kihm fails to disclose feet coupled to the bottom portion of the container. Ward discloses a fuel dispensing container with a plurality of feet (13, 15, 17) for raising the container a desired distance above the support surface. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the present invention, to have provided feet at the bottom of the container taught by Kihm, as taught by Ward, for the purpose of providing a means to raise the container a desired distance above a support surface. The feet would be configured to rest over a splash ring coupled to a sewer fitting. The feet are not disclosed as circular in shape, but the shape is a matter of design preference that would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the present invention as an aesthetic choice.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

U.S. Patent 7,108,026 to Luca

U.S. Patent 3,250,434 to Cavill

U.S. Patent 5,588,459 to Ellis
